

BIOGRAPHICAL STATEMENT OF TAYLOR ALTMAN

Taylor Altman, originally from New York, is a Staff Attorney in Legal Aid Center of Southern Nevada's Consumer Rights Project where she represents low-income and vulnerable individuals on consumer protection issues.

Taylor holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Stanford University and an MFA in creative writing from Boston University. After working as a college instructor and then as a web content manager at a Bay Area non-profit, she attended the University of California, Berkeley, School of Law. In 2016, she earned her J.D. with a certificate in public interest and social justice. During law school, Taylor was an editor for the California Law Review and served as a judicial extern to the Honorable Gloria Navarro of the U.S. District Court for the District of Nevada. Prior to joining Legal Aid Center, Taylor worked in commercial litigation in San Francisco.

Taylor is specially admitted to practice law in Nevada and is admitted to practice law in California. She focuses on payday lending, auto fraud, illegal repossession, and landlord-tenant cases, and is passionate about protecting consumers from predatory lenders and debt collectors. In her free time, she enjoys writing poetry and fiction.
